BULLETIN

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., Oct. 26.—(UP)—Clearing skies and calmer seas brought relief today to the 31 survivors of the steamer Chicago who were marooned on Michipicoten Island in Lake Superior when a storm grounded their ship.

Seven more members of the crew fought their way across the wilderness of the island today into Quebec harbor and reported the rest of the crew was in good condition.

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., Oct. 26.—(UP)—Thirty-one haggard and hungry sailors shivered in the freezing gales sweeping Michipicoten Island in Lake Superior today while ships held off from the jagged rocks, unable to rescue them.

Starvation threatened the men, members of the crew of the Package freighter Chicago, according to a radio message from the tug Whalen, which was awaiting a hull in the waves before making another rescue attempt.

The Chicago driven before the furious storm of Tuesday night rammed onto the rocky rampart of the little island. Seams were opened and the freighter sank at the stern, submerging the crew's quarters.

Fighting through the icy combers falling over the wrecked vessel, the sailors made their way to shore. Capt. P. C. Ferrel of Buffalo stayed on until all his men were safe.

Reports from the Port of Quebec, an Indian settlement on the south side of the island, said one member of the crew stumbled in there yesterday, almost dead from cold and exhaustion. His clothes had been soaked by marsh waters and his face and hands torn by brambles.

"It's one chance in 100 of getting through the way I came," he said. "I'm afraid not many will make it." The Whalen, owned by the Great Lakes Transit Corporation, which owned the Chicago, put in at Quebec and officers attempted to hire Indians to take food and supplies to the men over the nine mile stretch of marsh separating them from the port. The Indians declared the feat impossible.

Michipicoten Island is about 120 miles northwest of Sault Ste. Marie. It is a wilderness of grags, underbrush and marshes.

HOPE IS REVIVED

Chicago, Oct. 26. (UP)—Hope that some of the 52 sailors missing since the Grand Truck ferry Milwaukee went down in Lake Michigan during the storm Tuesday night might be alive flared up today and sped searchers by boat and airplane.

Four bodies were found last night lashed to a nearby submerged lifeboat 45 miles northwest of St. Joseph, Mich. The men had died of exposure and not drowning. Coast Guardsmen said and they expressed the belief that was alive until yesterday.

The discovery indicated at least some of the crew of the ferry had time to take to lifeboats and tended to discount the prevalent theory the big craft dived suddenly under the water when its cargo of 27 loaded freight cars shifted to one side.

This brought to nine the bodies recovered. Five victims all of whom had perished by drowning were found off Kenosha Wis. near where the ferry went down.

Coast Guardsmen said they found the lifeboat bearing the four bodies in the midst of wreckage planks, hatch covers and a part of the Milwaukee's pilot house. They took the corpses to St. Joseph to await identification.

Flags on public buildings flew at half mast at Grand Haven, Mich., where eight homes were saddened by loss of fathers, brothers and sons. Public funeral services probably will be held in churches there tomorrow for the victims.

Will Ask Rehearing
Gasoline Tax Case

Springfield, Ill., Oct. 26.—(UP)—A motion for a rehearing in the case involving $6,000,000 collected by the state under the invalid two cent gasoline law of 1927 will be filed in the state Supreme Court to be passed on in the December term, the Attorney General's office here was notified yesterday.

The Supreme Court in a decision last Saturday held that the money belongs to the state.

The decision was handed down in the joint case of the Indian Refining Company of Lawrenceville, and the Richardson Lubricating Company of Quincy.

The payments to the state, the court said, were made under the impression that the law was valid and not under duress. Since the companies did not purpose returning the tax to the customers who paid it, they are not in equity entitled to relief, it concluded.

ACTIVITIES OF
FASCISTS HERE
ARE ATTACKEDCongress Takes Notice of Reported Policy of Mussolini

BY LYLE C. WILSON

(United Press Staff Correspondent)
Washington, Oct. 26.—(UP)—Senator Hefflin, Dem., Ala., introduced a resolution today asking the Secretary of State to report to the Senate all the information available regarding the activities of Fascist organizations in this country.

In the preamble of his resolution Hefflin alleged that "certain American citizens of Italian descent, including F. N. Diavi of New York City, and Carlo Ragno of Hoboken, N. J., who have been arrested and imprisoned and have had their American passports taken away because they were opposed to the Fascist activities in the United States."

Hefflin included in the resolution several other charges which have been circulated in magazine articles and elsewhere including the following:

"That persistent efforts are being made by the Fascist League of North America, a corporation of the state of New York, and its local branches throughout the United States, to prevent the Americanization of Italians in this country, to stifle at any cost all criticism of Mussolini and to silence the opponents of Fascism."

Charges Campaign
Marcus Duffield writing in Harpers Magazine on "Mussolini's American Empire" alleges existence of a Fascist campaign of Italianization to instill loyalty to Il Duce in Italo-American children.

"These youngsters," Duffield said, "most of them born here, not only are being taught in Italian schools established by the Fascists, but are actually being given preliminary training to fit them for the Fascist Army."

The article continued to allege taxes were being levied by local authorities upon Italo-Americans by means of assessing a bachelor tax against unmarried Italo-Americans in the United States and compelling their relatives in Italy to pay if the bachelor in the United States refused to do so.

Some bachelors so taxed, Duffield said, were naturalized American citizens. He added an Italian Consul in one instance was believed to have obtained discharge of a school teacher in Yonkers, N. Y., because she refused to be guided by a Fascist government document outlining in a general way what children in Fascist schools abroad should be taught. The teacher, he said, was a Miss Mary Maolini.

Italy Sent Teacher
"Shortly afterward," Duffield continued, "Miss Maolini was dismissed and her place was filled by a teacher sent from Italy."

"The question of citizenship rights has projected itself even more sharply into the situation created by the Fascist policy of seizing Italo-Americans traveling in Italy, including naturalized American citizens, and compelling them to serve training periods in the Italian Reserve Army."

"This, again, is in accord with Mussolini's idea that all Italians are his subjects and that material can and should be drawn from America as well as from any other colony."

A joint congressional resolution approved by the President last year recognized existence of this situation not only in Italy but in Portugal and Greece and to a lesser extent elsewhere. The resolution requested the President to negotiate treaties to protect American citizens against imprisonment in foreign armies. A copy of this resolution, the United Press was informed today, has been delivered to the Italian government.

MAKES FORMAL DENIAL
Washington, Oct. 26.—(UP)—Nobilio Giacomo de Martino, Italian Ambassador to the United States, today issued a formal statement denying charges of a "subtle Fascist invasion of the United States" contained in an article by Marcus Duffield in Harpers Magazine.

Denial was made that Premier Mussolini, Fascism, nor the Fascist League of North America ever have opposed or attempted to thwart the Americanization movement. The Ambassador quoted a public statement of Mussolini in January, 1928, expressing his belief that Italians who come to the United States should become naturalized, and declaring "America is a country with which we can never have anything but the most harmonious relations."

The Italian military law which is attacked in the article is not a product of Fascism," De Martino said. "It was promulgated long before the advent of Fascism and was enforced by previous governments. It is not a system unique in the relations between the United States and Italy."

DETECTIVE WHO KNEW TOO MUCH
IS FOUND SLAINMurder Revives Public
Interest in Unsolved
Taylor Case

Los Angeles, Oct. 26.—(AP)—Echoes of the William Desmond Taylor murder case in 1923, film-land's most famous unsolved mystery, cropped out today in a police report of the recent death of Earl Boruff, Long Beach detective.

The police report quoted Boruff as having said to a friend some time ago that he knew "more about the William Desmond Taylor case than any other person in Southern California." At the time of the Taylor murder Boruff was said to have been in the employ of the Department of Justice.

Boruff was found dying of a gunshot wound. Circumstances at the time led authorities to believe he had taken his own life. Later the finding of his pocketbook a mile from the scene of the shooting led the investigators to suspect he had been murdered.

Boruff, the report asserted, not long ago expressed fear for his life. Investigators said they had learned that he had borrowed a revolver two weeks before his death. A similar weapon was found by his side.

Taylor, a prominent motion picture director, was shot to death in his apartment. Investigation of the slaying involved many film stars, among them Mary Miles Minter, a featured player at that time, but she was not accused of the crime. Edward Sanda, valet to Taylor, was questioned and released. A search was made for him some time afterward but he never was located.

Oregon Physician
Died Last Night

Dr. Horace H. Sheets of Oregon, prominent physician and surgeon and well known in this city, passed away at the Dixon public hospital last evening at 11:53, his death following a very brief illness. He was reported to have suffered a stroke which affected the right side of his body.

The body was taken at once to his home in Oregon, where funeral services will be conducted Monday afternoon at 2:30. Rev. Eagle, pastor of the Oregon Methodist church will officiate and interment will be in Riverview cemetery.

Dr. Sheets went to Oregon after completing his course of study and has practiced in that city for the past 25 years. He was prominent in northern Illinois medical circles and was a member of Dixon lodge of Elks Service at the grave will be in charge of officers and members of the Dixon lodge of Elks.

Romance Ends With Arrest of Couple

North Little Rock, Ark., Oct. 26.—(UP)—The romance of a Missouri boy and an Illinois girl was in the recidivism of Arkansas law here today.

Elva Arthur, 16, Ashley, Ill., who eloped with Hugh Harkins, 20, St. Louis, Mo., was held at the detention home and her sweetheart was in jail.

Both blame their predicament on bad company. They accepted a "lift" from Paul Jackson, 17, and Virgil Bomar, 15, both of St. Louis, Jackson and Bomar are wanted in St. Louis on charges of stealing the automobile they came here in.

Miss Arthur and Harkins told police they came here to be married. They are held for Nashville, Ill., authorities, while Jackson and Bomar will be turned over to St. Louis police.

Senate Half Way in Tariff Consideration

Washington, Oct. 26.—(AP)—At the end of its first week of tariff rate making, the Senate today reviewed the progress made and calculated its chances of reaching a final vote on the Smoot-Hawley bill before the close of the special session.

On the basis of what has already been accomplished, it found the prospects encouraging. The half way point in the first schedule of the measure had yet to be reached and fourteen other matters awaited when consideration of the first was done.

Viewing the none too prepossessing outlook for a new bill by December 2 the Senate's work today began with committee amendments to the forty-third of the 98 paragraphs of the chemical, oil and paints schedule. When committee amendments to all paragraphs have been disposed of, the whole schedule must be gone through again.

Today's debate embraced the vegetable and mineral oil and fat sections—one section including the controversy over rates on coconut oil. Members of the farm group contend that low rates on this oil prevent undue competition to the cotton seed oil industry.

Hit-'Em-and-Run
And-Hit-'Em-Again
Driver Discovered

Evanston, Ill., Oct. 26.—(AP)—Miss Pauline Stasiak probably could be described as a hit-'em-again driver; a hit-and-run-and-hit-'em-again driver, to be real hyphenate.

Judge Porter, in fining her $75 yesterday, said worse than that. He said that as a driver she was "a menace to the community," and told her to stop driving until she learned how.

Peter Pennacchia was the complaining witness. He said Miss Stasiak smashed into his machine at a street intersection, backed away, turned around, and disappeared.

"So," said Peter Pennacchia, "I went to the garage and got my other car. A fellow's got to have two or three cars nowadays with so many careless drivers at large. I started out again. I stopped for a light. Crash, bang. She hit me again. Same girl, same car."

"I can't afford to keep buying cars for her to smash into," The court decided the point was well taken.

Expect Body To Be Identified Today

Positive identification of the body now held at the Stephan mortuary in Ashton, which was found Tuesday morning along the Northwest tracks west of Ashton, is expected today. Coroner F. M. Banker late yesterday afternoon received word from a citizen of Chicago, claiming to be a cousin of Roy H. Wood, that he expected to come to Ashton late today or Sunday to view the remains.

The information gained thus far leads authorities to believe that the body is that of Roy H. Woods of Chicago. This developed through a receipt for a post office money order which was found in his clothing and which Coroner Banker forwarded to Chicago for investigation.

Several persons viewed the body yesterday believing that it might be the remains of Frank Brand, a transient shoe maker, who was formerly employed at the Dixon plant of the Brown Shoe company, and who was believed to have left here the first of the week for Buffalo, N. Y.

Congregationalists-
Christians Merged

Piquette, Ohio, Oct. 26.—(UP)—Merger of the National Council of Congregational Churches and the General Convention of the Christian Church, brought to a successful conclusion at the annual Christian Church convention here, was hailed today, as the first step in the direction of Protestant unity.

The consolidation, in a formative stage, was ratified by the Congregationalists at their annual convention in Detroit last year. Action of the Christian body, which approved the plan last night, had been anxiously awaited.

The combination will bring together under one church—to be known as the General Council of Congregational and Christian Churches—1,500,000 parishioners, and it is hoped to expand the membership by an additional million by absorbing other evangelical bodies.

Under plan of the merger members of the combined denominations will be permitted to retain their beliefs and each individual church will function as in the past.

Hold 10-Year-Old
Boy After Tragedy

Great Falls, Mont., Oct. 26.—(UP)—Douglas Miller, 10, was in jail here today while authorities investigated the fatal shooting of his nine-year-old playmate, Robert Jelinek.

The two were playing ball in the Miller home late yesterday when Douglas obtained a revolver from a drawer, aimed at his little playmate and fired. The bullet entered Robert's mouth, pierced the brain and caused instantaneous death.

Douglas sobbingly confessed he fired the gun.

A. O. Miller, father of the boy, told the police the pistol had been in the drawer unloaded for weeks.

Police said Douglas would be held until they determined whether the shooting was accidental or the result of a childish quarrel.

First Death in New
Vatican City Today

Vatican City, Oct. 26.—(UP)—The first death in Vatican City was recorded today when Teresa Desantis, 75, mother of a papal civil servant, died.

Complication resulted in the removal of the body to a cemetery on Italian soil. The body was considered by officials as coming from a foreign country and was subject to special laws, resulting in lengthy communications between the Treasury Department of Italy and the Vatican City Governor.

SENATE'S LOBBY
SUBMITS REPORT
ON SEN. BINGHAMTaking Representative of Manufacturers to Meeting Attacked

Washington, Oct. 26.—(AP)—The relations between Senator Bingham, Republican, Connecticut, and the Connecticut Manufacturers' Association were condemned before the Senate today by Chairman Caraway of the lobby committee as "tending to shake the confidence of the American public in the integrity of legislation."

Caraway made his statement after presenting a report of the Senate from the committee detailing circumstances of the "loan" by the Connecticut Manufacturers' Association of Charles L. Eyanson to assist Senator Bingham in his work on the Finance committee in framing the tariff bill.

"In view of the extraordinary circumstances attending this transaction," the Arkansas Senator said, "it was its duty to call to the attention of the Senate immediately the information obtained."

"It seemed to the committee that the transaction was beneath the dignity of the Senate and that it would tend to shake the confidence of the American public in the integrity of the legislation."

Caraway also disclosed for the first time that the committee had reason to believe Bingham was first approached by the association relative to their giving him assistance although the records show Bingham first asked for a "loan" of a man.

Washington, Oct. 26.—(AP)—A report on the relations of Senator Bingham, Republican, Connecticut, and the Connecticut Manufacturers' Association, was submitted to the Senate today by the lobby investigating committee.

It contained one specific recommendation—that the Senate adopt a resolution calling upon the Department of Commerce to submit a list of any "dollar-a-year" men on its rolls as a result of the testimony of Joseph E. Wulchet of the Connecticut Manufacturers' Association, that he was a dollar-a-year man for the Department.

The committee also reported that it "questions the propriety of the utilization of the funds of a railroad company for the payment of the services of a lobbyist in Washington." This declaration was made after the committee said it had found that the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad had contributed about $4,000 to the Connecticut Manufacturers' Association.

"Whether such contributions are forbidden by any statute may be the subject of further communication from your committee," the report added.

The report called attention to the law relating to payments of individuals doing government work by private concerns. This had to do with Wulchet's services for the Department of Commerce, however, and no reference was made in this connection to the action of Senator Bingham in placing Charles Eyanson, an officer of the Connecticut Manufacturers' Association, on the government payroll.

Relating the details of the Bingham-Eyanson incident, the report said, in part:

"He (Eyanson) came to Washington while the tariff bill was under consideration by the committee on Ways and Means of the House of Representatives in the early part of the present year, and added members of the association in preparing arguments and data for submission by them to the committee referred to. He assembled material for the use of Senator Bingham in connection with the hearings before the Senate committee on Finance and attended the hearings, occupying a seat from which he could communicate at any time with Senator Bingham and aided him with suggestions while the hearings were in progress. After the hearings were completed the majority members went into a secret session for the purpose of considering the bill. At that time, in the direction of Senator Bingham, Eyanson was sworn in as a clerk of the committee on Territories and Insular Possessions of which Senator Bingham was then and is now the Chairman, displacing one Henry M. Barry, who was told by Senator Bingham that his salary would nevertheless continue."

"After Eyanson had thus been introduced into secret meeting of the majority members, and had sat with them for some two or three days, Senator Smoot, Chairman of the committee, inquired of Senator Bingham whether he, Eyanson, was an officer or employee of the Manufacturer, and being advised that he was, Senator Bingham was told by Senator Smoot that objection had been made to Eyanson's presence in the committee and intimated that it would be better if he did not longer continue."

Miss Knapp upon returning to her car discovered a man climbing out of it. When she investigated she found that her purse had been rifled and the money taken. She watched the man climb into a west bound truck and securing the license numbers, telephoned to the police station and sheriff's office at Dixon. The truck was halted but the money was not found.

PATROLMAN HAD MISHAP

Sylvester Parks of Grand Detour, patrolman in the employ of the state Department of Highways, narrowly escaped serious injury last evening about 6:30 when the car in which he was driving turned over and was almost demolished. Parks was driving about three miles north of Grand Detour on route 2 when he noticed a horse and wagon ahead of him, there being no light on the wagon. In an attempt to avert a crash, he turned off the cement onto the shoulder, the wheels of the car skidding, and turning over in the ditch. Mr. Parks sustained slight cuts and bruises but was at his duties today.

HEARING CONTINUED

Cornelius Donahue of Pennsylvania, a transient, arrested Thursday night by the police at the North Western passenger station, pleaded not guilty to an information charging vagrancy when arraigned before Judge Leech in the county court this morning. His case was continued until the December term and in default of a bond of $2,000 he was sent to the county jail. Under the name of Clarence Donagan, the prisoner spent several days in the county jail on an intoxication charge recently and was paroled by Mayor F. D. Palmer early this week. ## CHARGES KIDNAPING

Alber Hambley, father of a large family residing on a farm near Woodstock, was in Dixon today and secured a warrant for the arrest of a young man residing east of Ashton, charging him with kidnaping his daughter Esther. The father is said to have discovered his daughter in the home of the young man last night. He has been in Dixon for several days conducting a personal search for the girl, who is said to be under age. Police Magistrate A. E. Simonson issued the warrant shortly before noon today to be turned over to Sheriff Ward Miller for service. When it was served this afternoon the young people displayed a wedding certificate showing they had been married by Judge Elmer E. Roberts of Ottawa late Friday, so the charges were dropped.

Forest Fires Rage
in North Minnesota

Duluth, Minn., Oct. 26.—(UP)—An increasing forest fire hazard in the eastern section of Minnesota's north woods was reported here today with 200 rangers and volunteer fighters laboring to check three serious blazes.

No immediate danger was foreseen to lives or property in the territory but A. G. Hamel, District Forester, declared a shift in the wind might carry the flames to within striking distance of a score of timber line settlements near the western shore of Lake Superior.

The most serious fire today was reported to have swept over 600 acres of brush and timber land in an area 10 miles east of Grand Marais. Other blazes burned near Maple Hill and Orr.

Hamel said rain or snow were the only factors to check the fires as steadily burning underground peat fires ignited the dry woods faster than the rangers could quench them.

UNUSUAL ORDER
BY COURT AFTER
CHARGING JURORSLong Deliberation Leads Defense To Hope for Disagreement

BY GEORGE H. BEALE.

United Press Staff Correspondent.
Los Angeles, Oct. 26.—(UP)—Pantages, theater magnate, remained in custody of a deputy sheriff today as he awaited a verdict in his trial on a charge of attacking Eunice Pringle, a 17-year-old dancer.

The jury of seven women and five men has been deliberating since 4:17 P. M. yesterday. Unable to reach a verdict, it was sent to a hotel at 9:30 P. M., returning to the jury room at 9:30 A. M. today.

The action of Superior Judge Charles Fricke in ordering Pantages placed in custody of the sheriff immediately after he charged the jury came as a surprise. The move seldom is made until a verdict of guilty is returned.

Counsel for Pantages protested that the ruling was an "unusual hardship," because of the illness of the defendant's wife, Mrs. Lois Pantages. She has been in a verous collapse since her conviction of manslaughter in the death of Juro Rokumoto, Japanese gardener. He was fatally injured when his automobile was struck by hers.

Modified Order.
Judge Fricke then modified his order, allowing Pantages to remain at liberty provided he was under constant surveillance by a deputy sheriff. The deputy went to the Pantages home when the showman left the courtroom for dinner and was there throughout the night.

When the jury was locked up last night after five and a half hours' deliberation, defense counsel felt certain that some jurors were holding out for acquittal.

Pantages waited restlessly in an ante room while the jury was out. His sons, Rodney and Lloyd Pantages, their sister, Carmen, and Mrs. Dixie Martin, Pantages' adopted daughter, were in the courtroom.

John W. Considine, film executive and fiancé of Miss Pantages, appeared for the first time.

Business is Sound
President Believes

Washington, Oct. 26.—(AP)—In spite of the week's ruinous decline in security prices, President Hoover is convinced that the general condition of American business is strong and sound.

The production and distribution of commodities, which he termed the fundamental business of the country, he declared to be upon a "sound and prosperous basis."

In addition, Mr. Hoover said that the trend of wages was upward and that individual output of workers in many industries was growing. All of these factors he interpreted as indicating a "healthy condition."

Mr. Hoover also mentioned a sympathetic decline in grain prices which accompanied the drop in stock quotations, asserting that this usually happens.

The statement was issued late yesterday at the President's regular semi-weekly conference

 New York, Oct. 26—(UP)—Selling on the Stock Exchange forced prices down again today but the market as a whole moved only narrowly.
 Dealings were on a modest scale as compared with the last two hectic days when twelve million shares were exchanged Thursday and five million Friday.
 Prices at the close of the short session—a session which many had hoped would be cancelled because of the great avalanche of work in the brokerage houses—were from four to eight points down:

SCOUT TAG DAY WILL CONTINUE DURING EVENING

Volunteer Workers are Wanted For Solicitation Tonight

Sixteen young ladies are busy today reminding the citizens of Dixon of their responsibility to the boy first three hours of Tag Day brought in a hundred dollars to headquarters. Chairman Mrs. Willard Thompson and her efficient co-worker, Vice President Mrs. Robert Sterling have been busy since 9 A. M. counting the returns.
 Enthusiastic young ladies bring in dollar contributions. A rather enthusiastic future business girl in none other than Eleanor Sterling had this experience on tagging a lady stated she couldn't give $5.00 and Eleanor quickly said she could if she would and Eleanor did get a dollar bill. Another incident occurred which of course was promptly checked a person offered $10 to a girl and she remarked "Oh Dear Se is enough." Of course it isn't and these girls are now getting half dollar quarters and dimes.
 Girls working this morning were as follows:
 Marion Quacco, Betty Schildberg, Eleanor Sterling, Fay Rheinhardt, Ruth Bartholomew, Kathleen Nagle, Dorothy Penny, Neva Atkinson, Elsie Neff, Dorothy Bishop, Mary Bennett, Wilamina Minneman, Catherine Buckner, Tete Habacker, Phillys Marks.
 Scouts: Bobby Sterling, Herbert Walker, Jack Habacker, George Teal. Genevieve Stiles had this experience having received a dollar as the largest gift and a penny as the smallest. The penny was a wonderful gift as it comes from a little lad gave all he had. Some day that boy will be a scout.
 The day is one of sunshine and it is reflected in the worker's attitude toward the task at hand. Workers are needed for evening work and young ladies and older girls are wanted at 119 Galena ave. to help tag. The drive will continue until every one has a tag. Vice Chairman Mrs. F. N. Habacker started at noon today as more workers are expected during the afternoon so the organization is working and it certainly is anything but quiet on the Western Front as one popular book puts it.

OUR URGE TO CREATE.

In New York there is a little old lady who, at the age of 94, spends all of her time painting pictures.

Thirty-four years ago the last of her children had grown up and gone out into the world. For the rest of her life, this woman's time was to "be her own," as we say. Always she had wanted to paint; so she bought an easel, some canvases, brushes and paint and proceeded to gratify her wish. She has been painting pictures ever since.

To be sure, the pictures she paints aren't very good. She never has sold any, and never has tried to. She is painting for her own amusement, and she is having a fine time doing it, too.

And we have a feeling that she is a pretty wise old lady.

In every one of us there is an impulse to make life beautiful and significant; to create something for the pure joy of creating.

Some men are fortunate enough to have jobs that provide an outlet for this impulse. Most of us are not in that class. We can't in the hackneyed phrase, "express ourselves" in our work. No man can give vent to an inner desire for beauty by tightening bolts in a factory all day, or by hammering a typewriter, or by selling real estate. We have to seek expression in our spare time.

Too often we fail to find it. We get amusement instead; we listen to music that someone else plays, read books and poems that someone else has written, go to the theater and see plays that someone else conceived. And while these things are valuable, they leave us unsatisfied. There is something in every man that makes him want to do something of that kind himself.

All right; why not try it?

Get a box of paints and some brushes and paint some pictures. Hunt up a teacher and learn to play the piano. Or, if your taste runs that way, sit down with a pad of paper and a pencil and write something—poetry, essays, a novel, anything under the sun that you feel like writing. Get a set of tools and make old ship models. Get a box of plastic clay and try your hand at sculpture.

This isn't saying that you have undeveloped talent. Probably you haven't. But that doesn't matter. Suppose the pictures that you paint would make a competent artist lift an eyebrow; suppose that your writings never see the light of day; what then? There is a joy in creating that is worth great trouble to experience.

In the old days, when life was simpler and there were fewer machines, it was more easy to find self-expression in one's daily work. A carriage maker, for instance, could get all the glow of creative work by seeing his products grow under his hands. Now he can't, for the simple reason that carriages aren't made that way any more. Craftsmanship is disappearing. We must turn to our spare time for our outlets of expression.

But there are possibilities of deep and enduring satisfaction for us. We can all, in our evenings at home, be artists or poets or musicians or craftsmen. We may not be very good ones, but that doesn't matter. We can make our lives more significant and more enjoyable.

ANALYZING FAMILIES.

Prof. Louis L. Thurstone of the University of Chicago, after spending two years analyzing the intelligence of the children of 1500 Chicago families, has drawn up a number of highly interesting conclusions.

He says, for instance, that the second child in a family is apt to be a bit brighter than the first child; that the age of the parents at the time a child is born does not have the slightest effect on that child's intelligence; that the level of intelligence of the children of small families is higher than that of children of large families.

The professor hastens to add that there are exceptions to all of these rules, so don't be worried if any of this hits you unfavorably. You're doubtless one of the exceptions. Meanwhile, it is to be hoped that more of this sort of work is done. It is only by the patient and laborious compilation of reams of such statistics that definite knowledge will ever be gained.

Action to save the trees has become national. But no one seems to be doing anything about the pedestrians.

Edison invented the light 50 years ago, but there's still a chance for somebody to think up a way to make a tail light keep burning.

Alcohol in the trees colors the leaves, says a bulletin. Just another phase of the red nose theory.

Ruth Elder was the girl who asked the public to please forget her after she got married. Let's see, whom did she marry?

(READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE)

The frightened cow ran right along. It seemed that it was good and strong. The Tinties and the Weones still were perched upon its back. I surely was a funny sight. They all hung on with all their might. Wee! Clowney kept the speed up when he gave the cow a smack.

The farmer, who seemed quite unkind, was now left many yards behind. He'd planned to spank the Tinties 'cause they'd eaten up his corn. His plan, however, died out now because the Tinties and the cow had easily outrun him. He was feeling quite forlorn.

Across the fields the fat cow raced, still thinking he was being chased. Then Coppy shouted, "Hey, let's stop and rest our weary bones. I've bumped around until I'm sore and now that we are safe once more I want to get down. Pretty soon we'll all be groaning groans."

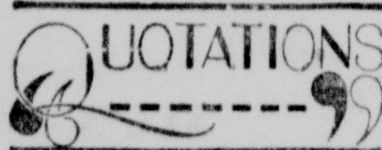

"A very good plan," Coppy cried. "I'm also tired of this ride. I'd like to lop down on the grass and sleep and sleep and sleep. I also fear the cow might fall and that would surely spill us all. It wouldn't be a bit of fun to topple in a heap."

Then Clowney shouted, "Whoa, there, cow. Please stop your crazy racing now. We'll find some nice, fresh grass for you if you will just stand still." The cow just moaned and picked up speed. Perhaps it didn't care for feed. There seemed no chance at present to wind up the Tinties' thrill.

And then a barn appeared in sight and frightened Clowney Tintie yelled, "Oh, gee, look ahead! I guess that barn is where we're bound." And, sure enough, the cow raced in. The Tinties began to grin. Said Clowney, "We will loiter here and see what can be found."

(The Tinties find a funny place to sleep in the next story.)

ERIE CANAL COMPLETED
The Erie Canal, an artificial waterway across New York state, extending from Buffalo to Albany and connecting the Great Lakes with the Hudson river, was completed and dedicated on Oct. 26, 1825.

On that day the first canal boat, Seneca Chief, left Buffalo for New York and navigation from the Great Lakes to tidewater was established. The canal is second in length only to the great canal of China among the artificial water highways of the world.

The actual cost of the Erie canal was $7,143,789, but by 1836 it had turned into the state treasury more than that amount.

The canal was 352 miles in length with nine miles of adjuncts and played an important part in the development of New York state and contributed in a large measure to the establishment of New York City as a great port and commercial center of the eastern coast.

Until 1882, when tolls were abolished, the gross revenues of the canal totaled $121,462,023.

THE UNDIGNIFIED FOOT
BY EDWARD A. RICH, M. D.,
Tacoma, Wash.

Member Gorgas Memorial

(This series of articles is prepared under the direction of the Gorgas Memorial Institute, which is organized to perpetuate the life work of the late Major-General Gorgas in preventing unnecessary illness. Headquarters of the Institute are at 1331 G. Street, N. W., Washington, D. C.)

It seems to be beneath the dignity of most medical men to stoop to the common foot disorders.

During the war one shipment of foot powder in barrels, sent to France to ease the feet of our soldiers, is said to have found its way to a field bakery and was made up into bread. Probably some medical officer was ignorant of its value as a lubricant for chapped and blistered feet and was trying to find a better use for it.

For many a year I have made the statement in public addresses that folks suffer as much pain with the despised static disorders of the feet as they ever do from such internal abdominal conditions as an infected gall bladder. If the latter, they seek and secure relief; if the former, they grin and bear it or are commiserated with.

Any painful static foot defect and almost all deformities in the foot region, when properly treated, can be relieved of pain and can be functionally cured. True it is not possible to cure a bunion radically and have resulting an X-ray-normal great toe, but what matter, if the toe functions and is painless?

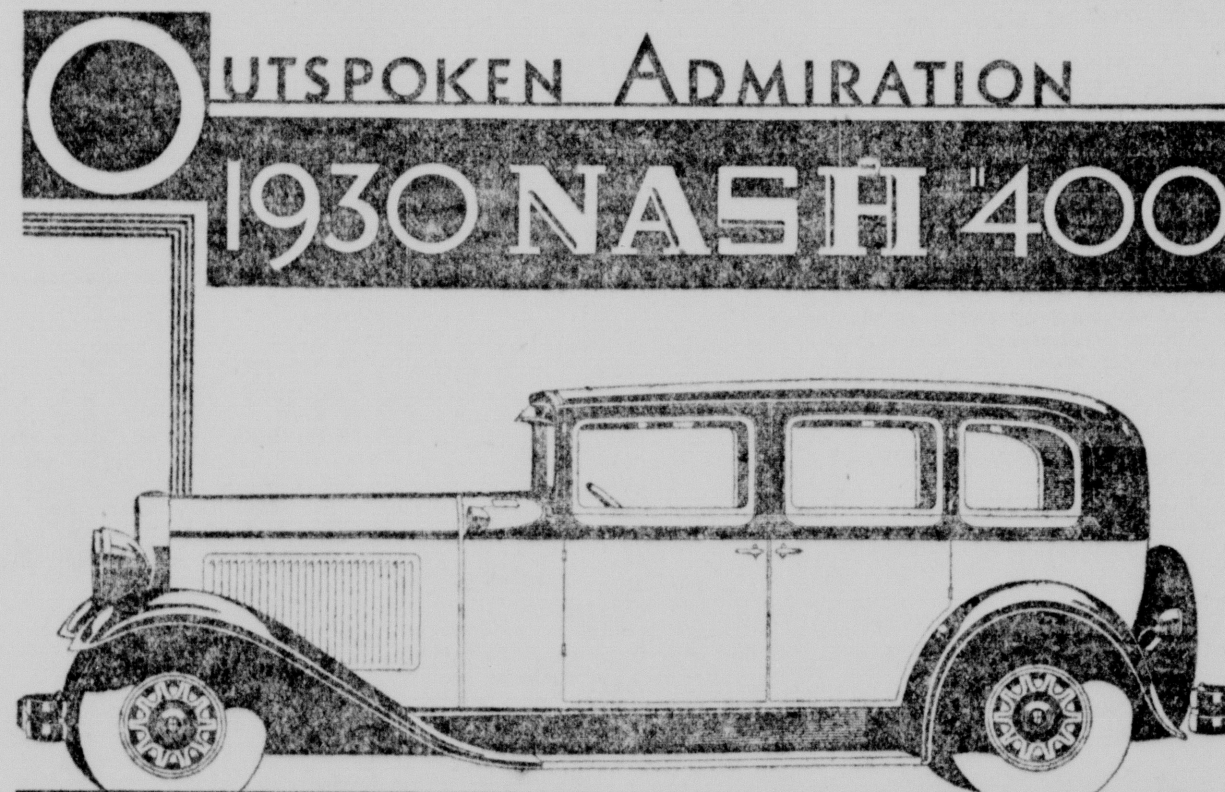

We have high lateral arches and low arches. An arch in between is a normal arch and a normal height is essential to provide spring, mechanics, and utility. If this arch is too high we have the so-called aristocratic high instep supposed to be a sign of blue blood but in reality a sign of the condition is called, was the curse of our army days. In the southern army camps more men were incapacitated by high arches than by low arches of flat-feet. If the arches are too low, the strain of weight-bearing and the abnormal mechanics produce the disabling results of flat-foot.

There is another arch across the foot at the base of the toes known as the anterior or metatarsal arch and in this locality appear such agonizing conditions as Morton's disease, Metatarsalgia, enlarged bones in the tendons, bunions, weeping eczema often called soft corns, and several other less common maladies. Mention should be made of ankle valgus, or turning out of the foot at the ankle with the resulting prominence and lowering of the inner aspect of the ankle. This is the most common of all foot defects found in children. It is often supposed to be a fallen arch but it is in reality only a weak and loose ankle joint.

How does the orthopedic surgeon tackle his job of correcting the foot defects? In the young the defects are corrected, in the old it is better to modify the shoes and adapt the foot-wear to the defect. This can be done skillfully and will accomplish the same thing as correction of defects.

The time has come when the economic loss and personal suffering from the many foot defects should be frowned upon. They are comparable with malaria twenty years ago—they are disorders with specific treatment that eradicates them.

OPINION seems to be unanimous that a fresh new type of motor car has arrived—a new generation—bringing new grace and smartness to the highways of the world. And it is true. Both in styling and performance, the new 1930 Nash "400s" are decidedly unusual, unusually fine. The three new motors which power these newest Nash cars are truly amazing in their smoothness, their quietness and their eager, dynamic spirit. A list of the 1930 Nash "400" features reveals countless other structural and performance advancements now introduced to motoring by these surpassing motor cars. They were built for leadership, and, in the opinion of motorists who have seen or driven them, leadership is theirs!

"WE ARE THE BOYS FROM ILLINOIS!"

The University of Illinois draws its students from all corners of the United States, but Coach Robert Zuppke could select an All-Illinois football lineup should he care to do so. Of the "first team," all but two, Frosty Peters and Jud Timm, hail from the prairie state. Peters

SPORTS OF ALL SORTS

INVESTIGATION H. S. ATHLETIC ASSN. PLANNED

Unfairness to Certain High Schools Charged by Society

Peoria, Ill., Oct. 25.—(UP)—A resolution aimed at the Illinois High School Athletic Association, calling for an investigation of the conduct of athletic activities between high schools in the state, was adopted by the Illinois State School Board Association late Friday.

It was prepared by Richard F. Locke of Glen Ellyn, general counsel of the Association, the resolution reads:

"Whereas it has been reported to the Illinois State School Board Association that unfairness has been shown to various high schools of this state by the Illinois High School Athletic Association, and in refusing the examination of the athletic association records to school boards.

"It is therefore hereby resolved that a committee of five be appointed by the president of the association with power to make full and complete investigation of the conduct of athletic activities between the high schools of the state of Illinois, and to report its findings to the executive committee of this association."

The charges of unfairness against the high school athletic association were brought to the attention of the high school section of the School Board Association by Champaign which has been barred from competition this year with other members of the association which include most of the high schools in the state. Peoria high school was barred a couple of years ago after playing a basketball game with a team in Indiana. Peoria high's team was accused by the athletic association of using an ineligible player.

W. C. Urban of Granite City was elected president of the School Board Association. Frank J. Petru of Cicero was elected vice president and P. E. Williamson of Urbana was elected treasurer. The secretary is appointed by the executive committee. The meeting next year will be held in Decatur.

Chicago's Center One Reason For Showing

Chicago, Oct. 26.—(UP)—Much of the credit for the unexpectedly good early season showing of the University of Chicago football team is due Charles (Buck) Weaver, tall center.

Standing six feet four and one-half inches, Weaver weighs 235 pounds and he is a master at getting through the opposition line. Until this year he played guard but Chicago was badly in need of a center at the start of the season. Weaver volunteered for the job and he proved that Chicago teams might have been strengthened during the past two years if he had played center.

Coach Stagg has used the big boy to open holes on most of his line plays. It has been noticeable that the bulk of Chicago line attack were aimed at center. Weaver is the answer to that.

Against Indiana in Chicago's opening conference game it was Weaver who got through for tackle after tackle to halt Indiana's several rushes and on offense he certainly knows how to pass a ball to his backfield men.

In addition to his football duties, Weaver is one of the most dependable trackmen at Chicago. He consistently is good for points in the weight events of any meet in which he enters.

Eckersall Goes Back To Wisconsin Today

Madison, Wis., Oct. 26.—(AP)—For the first time since he was almost mobbed by infuriated Badger fans in 1923, Walter Eckersall of Chicago was back in Madison today to referee a Wisconsin football game.

Eckersall, former University of Chicago gridiron star, refereed the Michigan-Wisconsin game in 1923 when Rockwell of the Wolverines made his disputed run, giving his team a 6 to 3 victory. As soon as the game was finished several hundred Badger rooters dashed on the field and Eckersall was saved by the quick action of football players of both teams.

His contention that he was forced to accept the ruling of the field judge on the disputed run satisfied Wisconsin officials and now that hard feelings of fans have subsided against him, he was requested to referee today's game between the Badgers and Iowa.

Terris Injures Hand: Sub Fighter is Picked

Chicago, Oct. 26.—(AP)—Irish Jackie Pilkington, Connecticut lightweight, has been substituted for Sid Terris of New York against Tony Herrera of Chicago in one of the 10-round bouts on Promoter Jack Dempsey's program at the Coliseum, October 30. Terris suffered an injury to his hand in training.

SPORT SLANTS

The checkered career of Lew Fonseca, the Oakland Portuguese, reached a climax when he was selected, unofficially but nevertheless decisively for the American League's "most valuable player" distinction of 1929.

The swarthy flogger, who was supposed to be about through as a major leaguer, put on a great exhibition to beat out Al Simmons and Jimmy Foxx for the batting championship. Here's how Gordon Cobbledick of the Cleveland Plain Dealer summed up his work:

"Fonseca, in addition to being the league's leading batsman, was one of its best defensive first basemen and a leading base-runner. He furnished much of the punch and more of the inspiration that enabled the Indians to make their spectacular climb from seventh place to third.

"For six weeks in the early part of the season, when the Cleveland pitchers were going badly and no one else was hitting, Fonseca single-handed kept the tribe from slipping into the cellar. I firmly believe that without Fonseca the Indians would have finished in the second division, and in this opinion I have the support of many of his team-mates."

Theoretically sprinters should make good ball-carriers, providing they can be "shaken loose" in an open field, but usually they lack shiftiness and durability. Red Grange and Red Cagle never won any sprint titles but there have been a few halfbacks as hard to catch on any gridiron as these two. They combined average speed with elusiveness, which happens to be just as essential when a flock of tacklers are to be avoided.

Ray Barbuti and Chet Bowman scored touchdowns as well as sprint victories for Syracuse. Barbuti, rugged enough to shine in both sports and then win Olympic laurels, may try the professional gridiron. Al Miller, Harvard's 200-pound sprinter, was also a good halfback and Charley Rogers, Penn track star, outran the secondary defense of a number of teams a few years ago.

George Simpson of Ohio State, the world's 100-yard record-holder, and his Texas rival, Claude Bracey of Rice Institute, reconsidered plans to try the gridiron but Cy Leand of Texas Christian has changed his spikes for cleats.

Two of the fastest men on the gridirons this fall are Jesse Hill, the Southern California fullback, and Jack Elder, the flashy Notre Dame ball-carrier. Both are quick starters, with the weight and drive to shake off would-be tacklers. They will do their stuff on the same scene of action, Soldier Field at Chicago, on November 9, with the prospect of well over 100,000 spectators being on hand for one of the main inter-colonial battles of the year.

Twelve-Year-Old Boy Confesses to Murder

New York, Oct. 25.—(AP)—A 12-year-old boy was held on a charge of homicide today for strangling a 76-year-old widow who detected him stealing $3 from her dresser.

Mrs. Clara Hewes, bed-ridden widow of "Hewes the Magician," awoke just as Edward Moran, the janitor's son in the West 17th Street apartment in which she lived, was leaving her room.

"Edward," the boy quoted her as saying, "you put that back where you got it."

"So," said Edward in his confession to the police, "we got to wrassling and she tried to take the money away from me. But I got my hands around her neck and gave her a shove, and she fell right back on the bed. She was so still I got scared. I then threw a brick through the transom window to make everybody think it was robbers and went back to school."

Three hours after Edward had taken the money he had lost $2.50 of it in a game of dice and had spent the remaining fifty cents for candy.

"COUNTESS" TOOK OWN LIFE IN HER HOTEL APARTMENT

A Note to Policeman She Admired Told Of Her Wish to Die

Chicago, Oct. 26. (AP)—Since October 18 lights had burned night and day in the apartment of Mrs. Eva Waddington Greeley—she who called herself a Countess. For a week mail had accumulated in the hallway mail box.

Neighbors investigated yesterday and found Mrs. Greeley dead. Beside her was a pistol that belonged to Policeman John Maier, 29; and there was a farewell note to him.

Mrs. Greeley killed herself, she wrote Maier, "because you cast me so brutally out of your life."

"Since you could not love me living," she wrote, "think of me kindly when I am gone."

Maier, who is known as "the handsome cop" of the Rogers Park station, said he had known the "Countess" a month. Maier is married but has been living apart from his wife. He said he called on Mrs. Greeley several times, the last time being October 11. When they went to a picture show he left the pistol. He never returned for it.

The suicide note was found in a box together with a solitaire diamond ring which Mrs. Greeley said she wanted Maier to have.

Mrs. Greeley was the widow of a British Army officer who was killed during the World War. She claimed her husband inherited the title of Count from his father. That was her second marriage. Her first, to Alexander McLaughlin, Chicago and Pittsburgh newspaper man, ended in divorce. Mrs. Greeley was a New Yorker by birth.

The verdict was the outcome of the second trial of the case, a previous trial having ended in a disagreement.

CHAPTER I

"WELL, my lad, if it's work you're wanting, Lieut. Strawn here is the man to see that you get your fill of it," said Police Commissioner O'Brien, his blue eyes twinkling at the tall young man who sat across the desk from him. "Jawn—" he turned slightly in his swivel chair and drooped a sandy lashed lid in a significant wink—"this young scallawag happens, by the grace of God and a sister of mine—rest her soul!—to be my nephew. Do you think that the tax payers will rise in their wrath and defeat me at the next election if I give him a job under you on the homicide squad? Of course, you're to kick him out if he's no good as a sleuth. But if he's half as good as finding out what a fellow would give his right arm not to have found out as his mother was . . . Why, Nora, ble—her heart, knew when I was in love with a girl before I had tumbled to it myself—"

"And what might his name be, Commissioner?" John Strawn, lieutenant of the Hamilton homicide squad, interrupted, his gray eyes narrowing speculatively upon the smiling young man who had risen and was holding out a hand.

"It might be O'Halloran, if that willful sister of mine hadn't lost her heart to a Scotchman by the name of Dundee," O'Brien chuckled. "Irish he is, Jawn, as you can see by the black hair and the blue eyes of him, but Scotch he is, too, by the name of his father pinned on him. Jimmie Dundee his name is, Jawn, or, if you're wanting his alias, you might write him down in your books as 'Bonnie Dundee'. A sorry name for a six-footer like Jimmie here, but Bonnie he's been since a sentimental lass he lost his heart to in high school found a poem called 'Bonnie Dundee' and made him a present of the nickname. So 'Bonnie' he is, and 'Bonnie' he'll be till he dies, I suppose. But what do you think, Jawn? Could you overlook the handicap and give the boy a trial at the detective business?"

"Anything you say goes, Commissioner," Strawn agreed grudgingly, at last taking the firm young hand that was still thrust toward him. "Of course, he'll have to take the regular examinations—"

"Of course!" Bonnie Dundee flashed a wide, disarming smile at the four men who was to be his chief. "And thanks much, Lieut. Strawn, I hope you'll forget, after a bit, that I worked pull to get this job—"

"Full, is it?" his uncle interrupted. "I'd have you know, lad, that I've got the interest of Hamilton at heart, not yours! If that Inspector Jessup of Scotland Yard says about you is true, Strawn is going to be glad to have you. Just look at this Jawn!" And O'Brien drew an official-looking letter from a desk drawer and passed it to the police lieutenant.

"HMM," Strawn remarked non-committally, as he read the three or four paragraphs. "So you've worked in Scotland Yard, have you, Dundee?"

"Yes—six months, sir, but only in a very minor capacity. I was under Inspector Jessup in the Department of Records. I did not actually go out on cases, but I did manage to learn something of British police methods."

"Another nut," he muttered, and tossed the letter across the desk to Strawn.

Strawn thawed visibly. "College, I suppose?" he grunted.

"I'm afraid so. But as I spent most of my time reading everything on criminology that I could lay my hands on, I don't think I'm overburdened with an education, sir."

"Hum! A story-book detective," Lieut. Strawn commented, but there was a glint of not unkindly humor in his gray eyes. "I'm afraid you're going to be disappointed in Hamilton as a crime center, Dundee. Of hand, I can't recall a single case where a rich old man was found dead in his library, a carved dagger in his heart, and doors and windows barred. And so far as I know, there's not a single house in all Hamilton with a secret passage—"

O'Brien chuckled. "You're right, Jawn. I'm ashamed of my murderers. Not an ounce of originality in a faithful of 'em! Just old-fashioned killers, the lot of 'em—shootings of 32's, carving their wives or sweethearts with razors or butcher knives. Sometimes the ladies serve arsenic sandwiches at their tea parties, but on the whole, my boy, they give us a pretty dull time of it, leaving so many clues lying around that sometimes Jawn Strawn here is almost ashamed to take the taxpayers' money—"

"Excuse me, Mr. O'Brien," a girl's voice spoke from the doorway, "but here's a special delivery letter for you, marked 'Personal'."

"Eh? . . . Oh, all right. . . . No, you needn't wait, Miss Crane," the police commissioner said rather pointedly, as he saw his secretary's eyes lingering upon the handsome face of his nephew.

As the girl—not a very pretty one, but striving by make-up arts to appear so—left the room, the police commissioner slit the envelope, drew out three sheets of cheap, blue-lined tablet paper, and began to read.

"Another nut," he muttered as he finished, and tossed the letter across the desk to Strawn. "Poor old lady—bored—trying to kick up a little excitement," he added to Dundee, by way of explanation. "We get hundreds of nut letters in the course of a year. Some of the writers are plain crazy, some trying to cause trouble for their private enemies, some out to kid the police—"

"And which kind is this?" Bonnie Dundee asked interestedly.

"The commonest of all," O'Brien chuckled, shaking his head of frost-touched red hair at his eager nephew. "Nothing here to interest a rising young Sherlock Holmes. Just an old lady who's got a bug in her head that all her fellow-boarders are plotting to kill her. What's that high-falutin' name your college boys have for it?"

"Persecution complex," Bonnie grinned. "Pardon—may I see the letter?"

Strawn, who had made no comment on the letter as he read it, beyond a disgusted snort, passed the sheets to the young man.

Dundee's bright blue eyes traveled swiftly down the first page of small, precise handwriting in green ink; then his audience of two saw him frown, as he began to re-read the sheet.

O'Brien winked at Strawn, and the police lieutenant returned the pleasant with great solemnity.

BUT Dundee's attention was concentrated on the letter:

The Rhodes House,
511 Chestnut Ave.,
June 29, 1929.

Police Commissioner Patrick C. O'Brien,
City Hall,
Hamilton.

Dear Sir:

I read one of your speeches in the paper when you were running for re-election. You said something like this: "My aim, as police commissioner of Hamilton, has been and will be to decrease crime by sound and logical methods of prevention. In my opinion, crime prevention is of even greater importance than crime detection." There was a lot more to it, of course, but I thought then you were a mighty sensible man.

Well, Mr. Commissioner, I was glad you were re-elected, although I couldn't get out to vote for you, because I haven't been able to walk down a flight of stairs for more than two years. I weigh over 300 pounds, and I have what the doctors call fatty degeneration of the heart.

But now I want to remind you of what you said in those election speeches, and ask you to prevent my murder. No, I'm not crazy, and I do know for certain that my life is in danger. It's because of my money, though I haven't got as much as those who would like to get it, by fair means or foul, think I have. Everything I have in the world is in my room, on the second floor of the Rhodes House, which is a boarding house, as you probably know. First and last, and by one way or another, I've made a good many enemies during the five years I've lived here, and all because of the money.

There's no use writing me a letter, telling me to put my money in a bank, so I won't be murdered for it. I have good cause to put no faith in banks, and my bad heart would keep me from going to the bank to get any of it out when I needed it.

What I want you to do is to send a plainclothes detective to talk to me, and to protect me from the fact that I am sure is hanging over me. I'll name no names now, but when your detective comes, I'll have plenty to tell him—enough to convince him that I'm not the silly old fool you're thinking me now.

If you want to prevent the robbery and probably the murder of an old woman who has never done anything worse in her life than to arouse in her fellow-boarders the passion of greed, you will do as I ask.

Respectfully yours,
(MRS.) EMMA HOGARTH.

P. S.—Please tell your detective not to let on to anyone, not even to Mrs. Rhodes, my landlady, that he is a detective. E. H.

HEAD OF INDIANA ANTI-SALOON BODY CALLED LAST EVE

Cancer Proved Fatal to Shumaker, Perfect Prohibitionist

Indianapolis, Oct. 26—(UP)—The Rev. Dr. E. S. Shumaker, 62, for two decades Superintendent of the Indiana Anti-Saloon League and known as "the perfect prohibitionist," is dead here after a month's illness.

Shumaker died at 4:45 P. M. yesterday. Physicians diagnosed the fatal disease as a malignant tumor of the liver, but his friends contended he was a martyr to the "cause." His health was broken by a two months sentence in the Indiana penal farm for contempt of the state Supreme Court.

The dry leader was released from the farm weighing 20 pounds less than when he entered. At the time he was highly elated over his slenderness, saying he had spent his term "training down to fight the demon rum."

Developed Cancer

Several days later he nearly collapsed and shortly thereafter entered a sanitarium at Battle Creek, Mich. There he was told of the cancerous growth and advised to undergo an operation. He sank rapidly, however, and never became strong enough.

Shumaker became nationally famous when he was instrumental in obtaining passage of the Wright "bone dry" law, considered the most stringent prohibition legislation in the United States.

In 1925 he engaged in a controversy with the Indiana Supreme Court which finally brought about his sentence to the prison farm. Trouble started when in his annual report to the Anti-Saloon League Shumaker charged that the state's highest tribunal was "wet."

Arthur L. Gillion, Attorney General, brought contempt charges. Dr. Shumaker was convicted in August, 1927, but fought the verdict for a year, before surrendering.

Alcohol in Tonic

He was released immediately on a pardon from Gov. Ed Jackson. Gillion claimed the Governor had no power to pardon a man sentenced for contempt and was upheld by the court.

Shortly after his return from the Battle Creek Sanitarium Shumaker obtained wide publicity when it was discovered that a tonic which had been prescribed for him there contained 23 per cent alcohol.

He finally abandoned it when comment became pointed.

Dr. Shumaker was born July 30, 1867 at Greenville, Ohio. He was ordained as a Methodist Episcopal minister in 1890. Five years later he was graduated from DePauw University. He filed pulpits in all parts of Indiana until 1903 when he became Field Secretary of the Indiana Anti-Saloon League.

He is survived by a widow, a daughter and four sons.

Defaulting Banker Wants Speedy Trial

Urbana, Ill., Oct. 26—(UP)—John Thornburn, 51, president of the Urbana Banking Co., was held in default of $200,000 bond here today after police said he had confessed to misappropriating $100,000 in school funds deposited with the institution.

Thornburn returned here unexpectedly yesterday, surrendered to State's Attorney Roy R. Cline and asked that he be given a speedy trial. He refused to explain what he had done with the missing funds, but asked that friends make no effort to raise the bail money.

The bank was closed Monday after Thornburn had disappeared while supposedly in Chicago endeavoring to raise funds. On his return the president was said to have told police he had no alibi to offer, but was suffering from remorse and would plead guilty at his trial.

ATTACK ACTIONS OF FALL'S JUDGE IN NEW MOTIONS

Attorneys Plan Appeal On Grounds of Biased Court Rulings

BY HERBERT LITTLE

(United Press Staff Correspondent)
Washington, Oct. 26 (UP)—Former Secretary of Interior Albert B. Fall probably will be sentenced next Friday to imprisonment, fine and disqualification from public office for accepting what a jury adjudged a $100,000 bribe while a member of the Harding Cabinet.

Sentence may be from one day to three years, but the jury which found the 68-year-old defendant guilty of accepting a bribe from E. L. Doheny, oil millionaire, unanimously recommended mercy. There is little likelihood, therefore, that the maximum sentence of three years and $500,000—triple the amount of the bribe—will be imposed.

Fall's lawyers, headed by Frank J. Hogan, planned an attack on the actions of Justice William Hitz, in their argument for a new trial. The motion, filed a few hours after the verdict and containing 30 grounds, will be argued Friday.

The motion, and an accompanying one for stay of judgment, are formalities prior to making an appeal of the District Court of Appeals. Such motions are almost invariably denied. If they are denied the sentence will be imposed, and defense lawyers will appeal from this judgment.

Fall remained in seclusion in his hotel suite today, with his wife, daughters and friends, smarting under the ignominy of being the first Cabinet officer in United States history to be convicted of a felony committed while in office. The family planned to leave today for New Mexico.

Fall is reported financially insolvent, his ranch, improved and enlarged with the $269,000 he received from Doheny and Harry F. Sinclair, having been sold at foreclosure sale last spring, and purchased by Doheny.

Loss in Film Fire Probably $2,000,000

Hollywood, Cal., Oct. 25—(AP)—Losses incidental to the destruction of the laboratory here of the Consolidated Film Industries were tentatively fixed today at less than $2,000,000 as a result of discovery that several of the valuable screen productions stored in the building were not damaged.

Company officials said the exact loss could not be determined until an accounting had been made. One man was killed but fifty other employees fled to safety before the fire gutted the structure yesterday.

A million feet of film, most of which was believed to have been positive, was burned, company executives estimated. Positives can be reproduced from the original, or master, film.

Radio-Keith-Orpheum productions estimated their film loss at $500,000, exclusive of possible destruction of master films in the unopened vaults. Another estimated loss of $60,000 was given by producers of "Hell's Angels," 30,000 feet of this master film apparently having been damaged or destroyed.

Nauvoo Celebrating Unique Anniversary

Nauvoo, Ill., Oct. 26—(UP)—Pioneer days were reenacted in descriptions and recollections of old residents who joined in a unique centennial celebration here today.

It was just one hundred years ago today that Circuit Judge Richard M. Young held court here. The court met in what is known as the James White House, which today is in need of some repairs.

Since that day three Presidents of the United States have visited here. Abraham Lincoln stopped on his way to the Black Hawk war, Andrew Jackson was a frequent visitor and Zachary Taylor was here when the Mormons held sway.

Jefferson Davis, president of the Southern Confederacy, and Stephen A. Douglas, also were visitors here. Another frequenter of this community in the old days was Chief Black Hawk.

Today's centennial address was made by Charles J. Scofield, lawyer and author. Several bands from various parts of the county furnished music.

When Ione Ord Collapsed at Grave

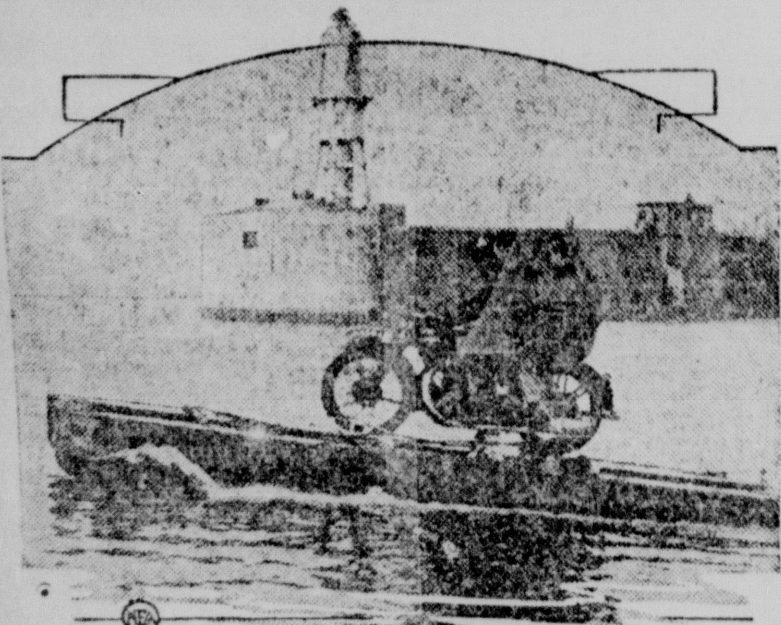

The steady composure that Ione Ord, New York show girl, had maintained since the body of Jack Kraft, artist and her traveling companion, had been taken from the Mississippi river near New Orleans was broken when New Orleans detectives caused her to view Kraft's body in its shallow grave near the river. The girl, shown here at the grave, fainted and upon being revived made a statement which is believed to implicate another man, with jealousy as the motive but which officers did not make public. Miss Ord first said Kraft had committed suicide by leaping from a New York-to-New Orleans steamer but when the body was found there was a bullet hole in his chest.

Marjorie Baptist, above, is convincing proof that feminine beauty in Honolulu rivals with any, any place. She was chosen "Miss Honolulu" in a recent beauty contest on the island.

Cross Channel by Motor-Bike

Across the English channel and back, 20 miles each way, went this pair of motorcycle enthusiasts—without even getting seasick. With H. S. Perry driving and M. Thacker in the rear seat, they drove from Birmingham to Dover, then with floats fitted sailed across the channel and back. The machine ran at half throttle almost all the way and the lone spark plug was covered at times with heavy salt spray, but no trouble was experienced.

EFFICIENT MOUSE TRAP
London.—A novel mouse and rat trap has been perfected here which can take care of trapping hundreds of the rodents in one evening. After a mouse is lured into the trap, it follows a passage that suddenly shoots it into a can filled with water. The mechanism is so constructed that the plunge of each victim resets the trap for the next mouse.
The consumption of beer per head of the English population before the revolution of Oliver Cromwell was 30 gallons; it is now less than a quart.

YOSEMITE PARK HOLDS LEAD AS TOURISTS' GOAL

Yellowstone Is In Second Place—Visitors' Total
Increases

By HARRY W. FRANTZ
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
Washington—(UP)—Yosemite waterfalls were a more potent lure than Yellowstone geysers in the annual race for tourists' favor, and Yosemite Park retained first rank among national parks in 1928, according to statistics published by the Department of Interior.

Yosemite boasted 461,257 visitors in the travel year ending September 30 compared with 460,619 in the previous year, while Yellowstone gained in relative popularity with 260,697 against 239,984 in the year before.

Although Yosemite maintained its first place, any sagbrush along the Yellowstone Trail will tell you that Yosemite has a longer season and is nearer to large cities, and that Old Faithful still is the first and last love of all true "scenery" tramps.

The total number of visitors to national parks in 1928 was 2,680,597 against 2,522,188 in 1927. In addition, 567,656 in the previous year. The figures showed conclusively that the travelers' desire to "See America First!" has not been abated by the terrific drawing power which Europe now exerts through "tourist third."

Hawaii Park Increase

The big features of the park travel year were increases in travel to Yellowstone, Sequoia, Crater Lake, Glacier, Rocky Mountain, and Grand Canyon parks. Eleven of the parks passed the hundred thousand mark this year. Hawaii Park for the first time. The principal increases in national monument travel were at Carlsbad Cave, Capulin Mountain, Casa Grande, Devil's Tower, Papago Saguaro, Pipe Spring and Scotts Bluff.

The new Grand Teton National Park in Wyoming, shows in the national travel figures for the first time, with 51,500 visitors. Many of these combined a trip to the Yellowstone. The figures assure the substantial popularity of the Grand Teton, which includes the famous peak which was a guidepost for Argonauts and pioneers bound westward across the prairies through the Rocky Mountains.

Another "Baby" Park
Bryce Canyon National Park, in Utah, also for the first time appears in the statistics with 21,997 visitors. The other national park, in Colorado, drew 274,408 against 235,057 the year before.

The rising popularity of Hawaii as a tourist center is indicated by an attendance of 109,857 at the Hawaii National Park, compared with 78,414 in the year preceding. Glacier National Park, in Montana, also had an unusually big year, with 109,857 tourists against 53,454 in 1927.

Acadia, in Maine, most easterly of the national parks, attracted 149,554 travelers, compared with 134,897 the year before. Mount McKinley, Alaska, least visited of the national system, had 1,638 visitors against 862 in 1927.

Muir Woods, in California, again ranked first among the national monuments, with 93,358 visitors against 103,571 a year earlier. The Petrified Forest in Arizona attracted 69,350 against 75,225, while travel to the Carlsbad Cave in New Mexico increased from 46,335 to 76,332.

POET'S CORNER

A YOUTHFUL VIRTUE

Once there lived a little lady near a little town
And she played and she worked till the sun went down
Rolled and romped on her lawn mid the summer show
Then more joy came to her with the winter snow.

'Twas a lively little lass jovial all the day
Merry like her friends but different in a way
Something seemed so serene in her winsome face;
Kindliness kindled flame to enhance her grace.

Not an animal would suffer when she was around;
Sympathy she poured out to the injured hound.
Anywhere, everywhere, hers were deeds humane,
And the beasts and the fowls knew the least of pain.

Many other little girls would laugh when they would see
Chickens lame, or deformed, or with broken knee;
But to her it was grief and her heart overflowed
Winding wounds, while her touch healing help bestowed.

And 'tis said her ministrations saved so many fowls,
That her folks thought her wise, wiser than the owls.
Though there were a few who laughed, the others marvelled more,
While the maid, merciful, labored to restore.

Swiftly sweeping summer seasons brought new months and years,
While she drank deep the dregs of a cup of tears.
Time has changed since those days, older she has grown,
But the same kind-heartedness ever she has shown.

—Bela R. Haldeman,
Franklin Grove, Ill.

ROCHELLE NEWS

Rochelle—Perhaps few churches in this section have a more romantic history than has the Presbyterian church of Rochelle, which will celebrate its seventy-fifth anniversary with an all day program here Sunday, Oct. 27. Sometime in the early fifties, Mrs. Mary N. McConaughy, the mother of Frank J. O. and George, gathered a little group of children and organized a Sunday School. Lane was then the western terminus of the Chicago & North-western railroad. It is almost certain that some preaching services were held in this car, but no regular church organization had as yet been formed.

In 1854, Dr. McConaughy attended the meeting of the Presbytery of Chicago and asked to have a committee sent out to organize a Presbyterian church. In the fall of that year, Revs. A. C. Miller, Geo. H. Goodhue and John Usticke came and consummated the organization as "The Presbyterian Church of Lane." Since then the church has had a continuous history of work and service in this community. Seventy-five years ago it began with only ten charter members. Today it has over three hundred. It has a beautiful church and through its Sunday School and other organizations serves a large constituency.

One of the features of the Diamond

Anniversary that promises to be of more than common interest will be the singing of several special numbers by a great chorus to be composed of all the persons who have ever sung in the choir of the church as far as they can be obtained.

Perhaps no two more outstanding preachers are to be found among the Presbyterians of Illinois than Dr. Frank A. Gageby and Dr. Frederick Shannon. Dr. Gageby is superintendent of the Synod of Illinois and is, in a sense head of the Presbyterianism of the state. He is located in Decatur and serves the entire state. Dr. Shannon, a member of the Chicago Presbytery, is preaching for a Congregational church in Chicago and has attracted a wide audience with his fine radio message. Dr. Gageby will speak at the morning service at 11 o'clock and Dr. Shannon will be the speaker at the evening service at 7:30.

As a feature of the afternoon program at 1:30 will be presented a dramatization of the organization of the church at Lane Station written by the pastor, Rev. Frank A. Campbell. It will be given as an episode in the history to be read by Miss Maude Steele. The eighteen characters will represent the charter members and others who had to do with the original organization.

Another special feature that is sure to attract attention is to be in the display of old time relics, books, pictures, furniture, dresses, drapes, etc.

The present pastor, Rev. Frank A. Campbell, has just closed the fifth year of his ministry in Rochelle. Last year about this time the church celebrated the completion of a redecoration and repair program that represented an outlay of over $4000. During this administration about 100 members have been received into the church and the present outlook for the work is said by many to be the best it has been for years. The Sunday school is reaching a new high level which seems to overflow the church Sunday mornings.

the same day, in 1868, Mrs. McConaughy, then Miss Amelia Gardhouse was here attending school while Mrs. Brundage, Miss Emma Steele, lived here.

The Rev. Father Thomas O'Brien, pastor of the St. Patrick's Catholic church, has announced that pastor of the Little Flower church, the Rev. Father Stephen E. McMahon, of Chicago, has accepted an invitation to deliver the principal address at the dedication ceremonies on Oct. 27 for the new St. Patrick's school. An elaborate program is being outlined for the service, and the event promises to be one of the most important in the history of the local parish.

The prices have been taken off these cars. Come in and give whatever you care to at Public Auction. They will be demonstrated to anyone calling before the sale.
Due to the tremendous number of new sales on the late model Buick and Marquette, we have accumulated an overstock of USED CARS, and we have decided to let the public buy them at their own price in this manner. Practically all these cars have been reconditioned and repainted and carry our usual USED CAR POLICY.

EVERY CAR ACCURATELY DESCRIBED

As each car is brought up to the selling block the Auctioneer will give a detailed, truthful report regarding its condition, mechanical and otherwise.

If the car has any defects whatsoever he will explain them, and if it is a guaranteed car, we will live up to the guarantee in every way as we always have on cars sold in the past. We want you to know that you can buy at this Auction Sale with the same assurance of lasting satisfaction that you would have buying at private sale.
